ENGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY.
WITH THE PUNTS AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION.
An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong.
For completeness and practical service this work has been revised. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Chinese and Pinyin pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, and dispensing with those vast margins and red ink spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications.
To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration:—Chinese Vocabulary contains about 10,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, as to the Chinese and English, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various applications and combinations of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto published.
For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which they are in contact. In this respect the work is not only a valuable occasional work, but a volume of upwards of two thousand large quarto pages.
A VOL. IMPERIAL QUARTO, Price, $20.
A LARGE REDUCTION in PRICE is made to Purchasers of 50 or more Copies.

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which they are in contact. In this respect the work is not only a valuable occasional work, but a volume of upwards of two thousand large quarto pages.

ENGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY.
WITH THE PUNTS AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION.
An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong.
For completeness and practical service this work has been revised. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Chinese and Pinyin pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, and dispensing with those vast margins and red ink spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications.
To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration:—Chinese Vocabulary contains about 10,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, as to the Chinese and English, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various applications and combinations of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto published.
For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which they are in contact. In this respect the work is not only a valuable occasional work, but a volume of upwards of two thousand large quarto pages.
